Moments

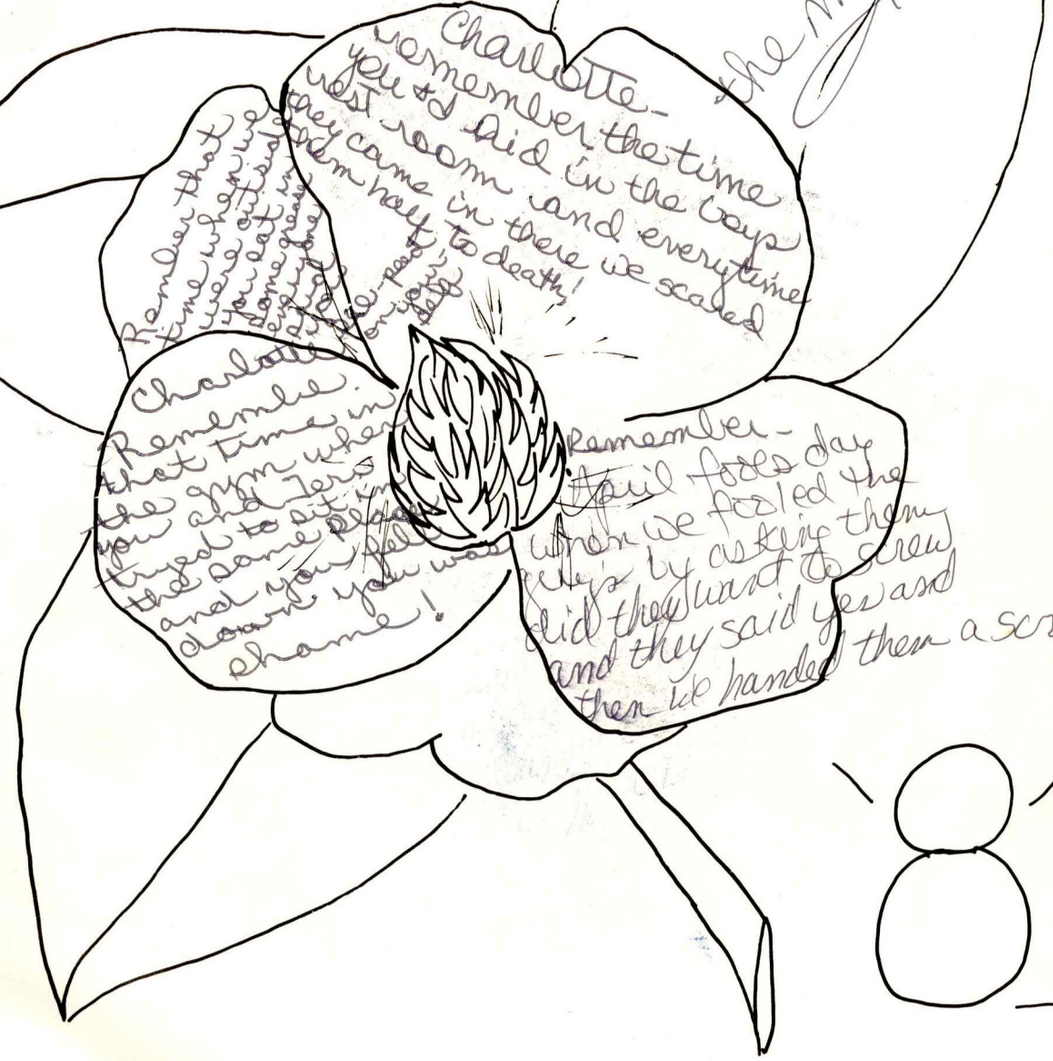
These were the moments



Charlotte-
remember the time you & I did in the boys rest room and everytime they came in there we scared them half to death!
Remember that time in the gym when you & Terry tryed to act like the same person and you peed on your self & had to go home!
Remember- April fools day when we fooled the girls by acting like we had the flu and they said yes and then we handed them a screw!

Magnolia Jr. High
Moss Point, MS 39563

Voluma XI

First Came Summer

Magnolia's students weren't just lying around the house this summer; they were having fun! Do you see any of your friends in these pictures or do any of these scenes look familiar? Instead of wasting precious out-of-school moments some of them were living it up while they could. Staying up late and sleeping late are fun too, but the action was somewhere else.

Many students did more than sleep late or play. Many were busy preparing for the coming year. Some attended yearbook camp, some band camp. Our cheerleaders were busy learning new cheers and winning awards at Perk. A few students even attended summer school.

Sports played an important role in our summer too. Scott Bosarge hit 15 homeruns in Dixie Youth Baseball while Clinton Wells was busy pitching that ball over homeplate.

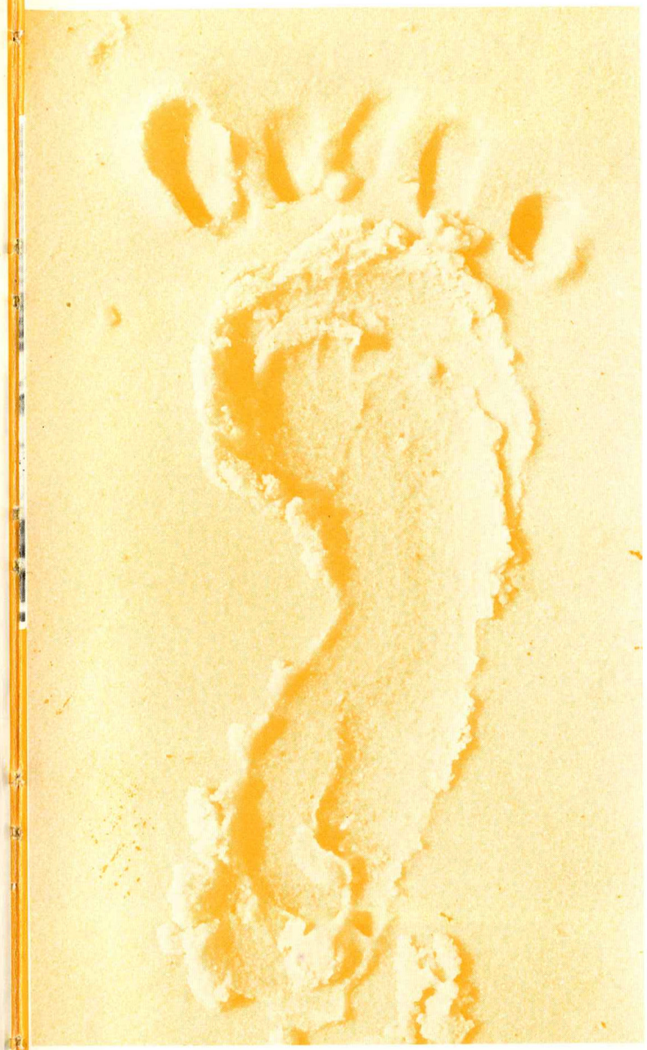
And quite a few of our students pursued more academic activities during the summer. Ask those people who went to choral camp if it was all work and no play. Or ask our LIFT students about their camp activities.

Local students changed from hanging out in town to a well-known hang out this summer, called Pig Island. Swimming, skiing, bicycling, sailing, and just lazy days of fun in the sun were fast becoming things of the past.

Time just seemed to fly, as everyone tried to cram the last few days of summer in before ...

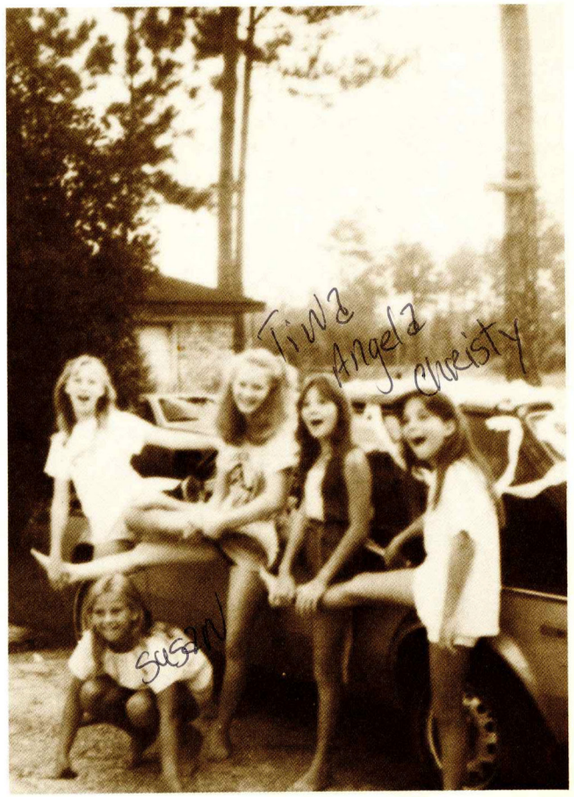
Having fun on Pig Island!

VRROOM! VRROOM!!!



Prints of summer fun!

Carwash anybody?



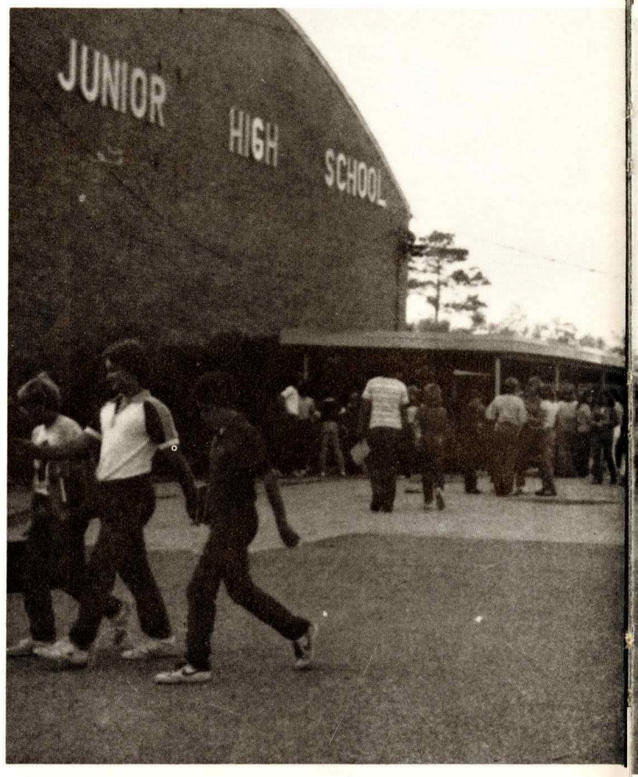
. . . Yes, You Guessed It . . . School!

Rolling out of bed, he stumbles to the bathroom and falls into the shower. After rushing to get dressed, he runs to the front door just to see the bus passing by. After desperate attempts to get his mother out of bed, he finally makes it to school and finds out that Mr. Adams hasn't gotten there yet. While waiting for Mr. Adams to arrive, he observes some students walking to the store, some playing chase, or some just standing around talking.

Waking up to the buzz of the alarm clock, she wishes it was Saturday. But when she realizes wishes don't come true, she stumbles out of bed and into the bathroom to plug in her rollers. To revive herself she jumps into the shower. After completely drying her hair, she gobbles down her cheerios, jumps into her jeans and fixes her face on the way to the bus stop.

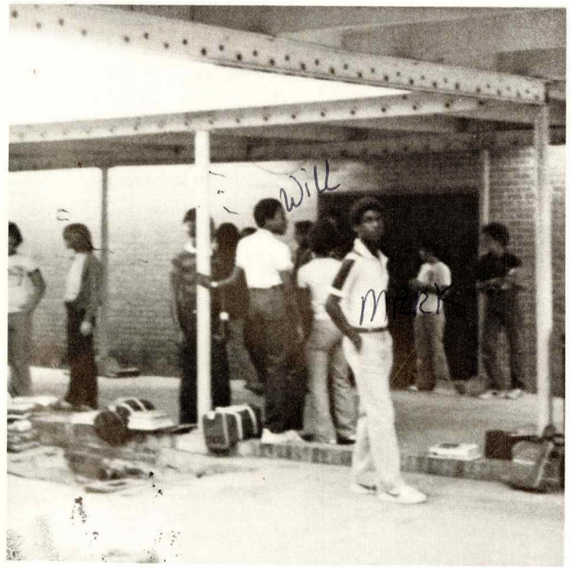
Finally realizing the bus has already come, she runs home and desperately tries to wake her mother.

At last the first dreaded bell rings. He rushes to his locker and opens it up only to have all of his books fall onto his toes. As she stumbles in the door and remembers the homework she didn't do, she realizes it's going to be a long day.



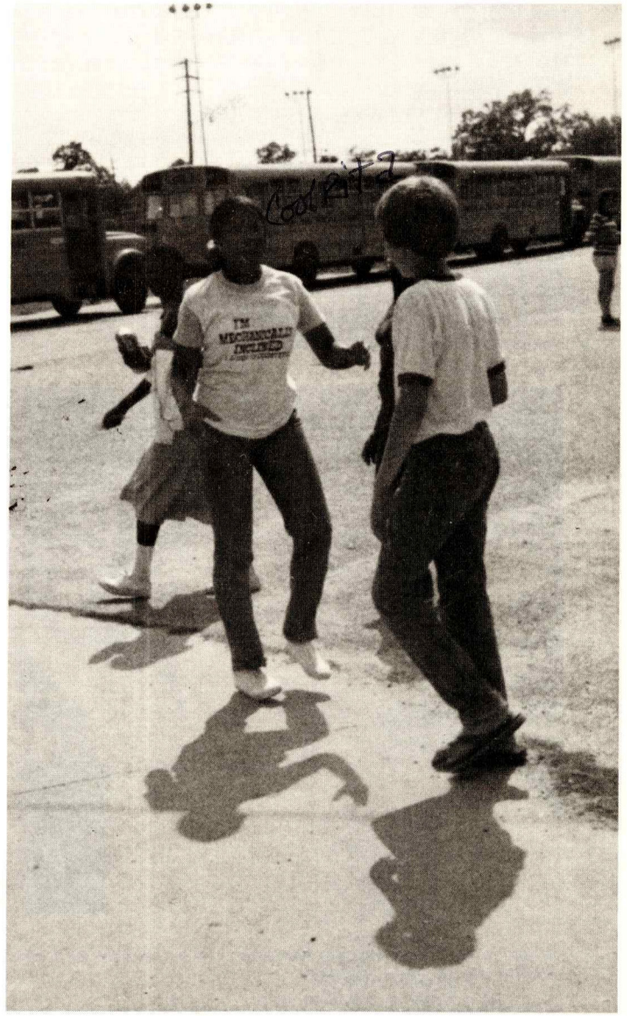
There's an art to sneaking by a photographer which Angie does not have.

Cindy Watkins says . . . "Not a hair out of place . . . I'm using Mink."



Another year . . . another day.

Shadow dancing.



Patiently waiting for the ball. The start of a new day.

School?

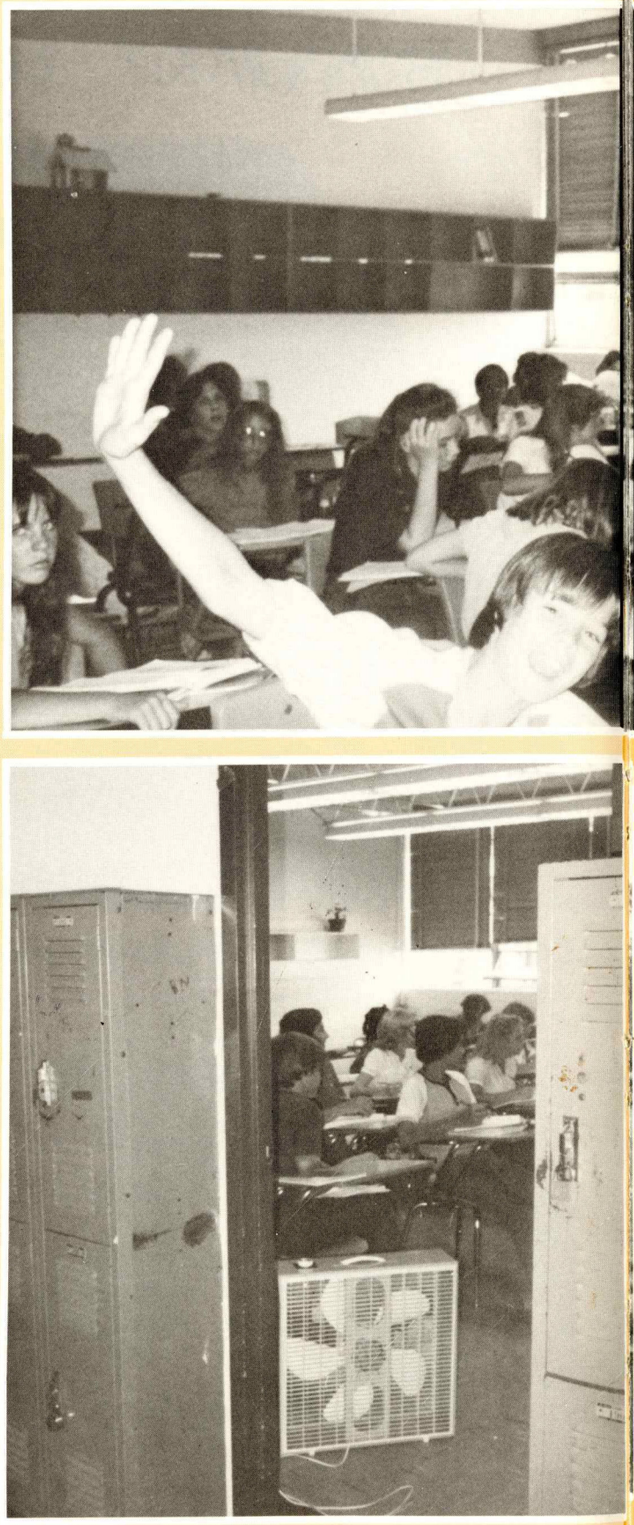
Junior high school offers a strong and adequate academic curriculum for scholars and dreamers alike. Opportunity is provided at Magnolia for the development of the many varied talents of the students. Achievement is limited only by the desire, the perception, and the quest of knowledge.

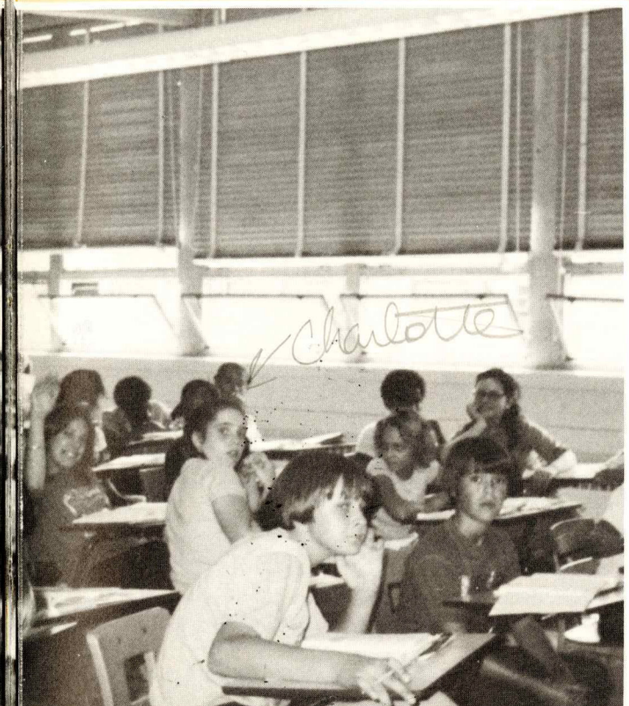
The hustle and bustle of trying to get to class on time down crowded halls is the same as always. At MJHS are students and teachers working together to attain the prime function of our school . . . to teach so that we as students will understand the past, evaluate the present, and prepare outselves for the future.

Whether learning takes place in the quiet and calm of the over-heated classroom or in the noise and excitement of the gym, students are encouraged to develop to their highest potential. It is often difficult and sometimes boring but always we can look forward to those days that are filled with student activities.

Garrett Tucker discovers new formula . . . S + S = OM (Surprise shapshot equals open mouth.)

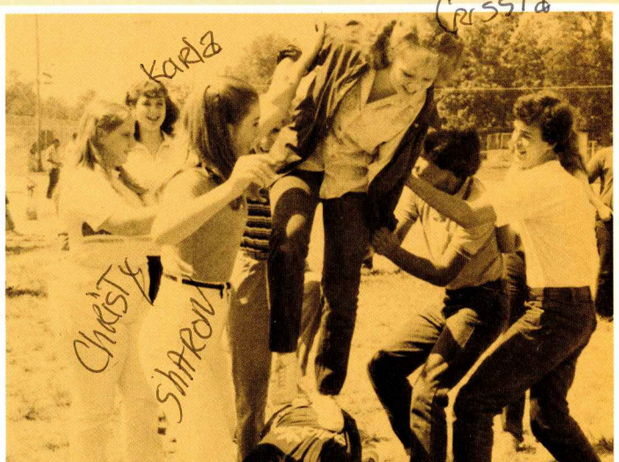
Who'll last longer . . . the algebra class or General Electric cooling?

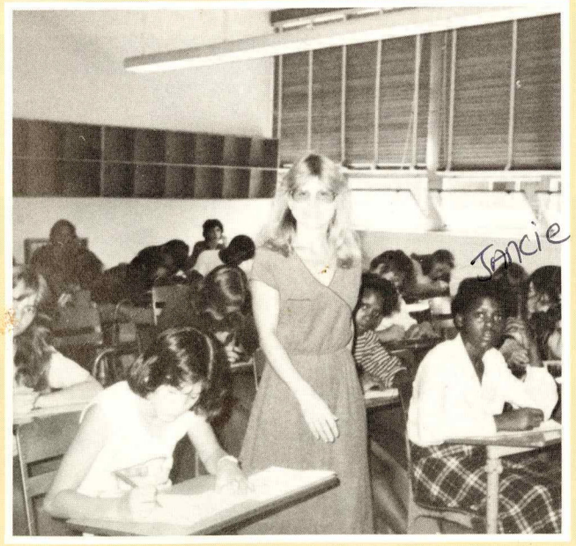




Robert Jewell excitedly says, "Cheer up class. I brought some extra Pick-me-ups!"

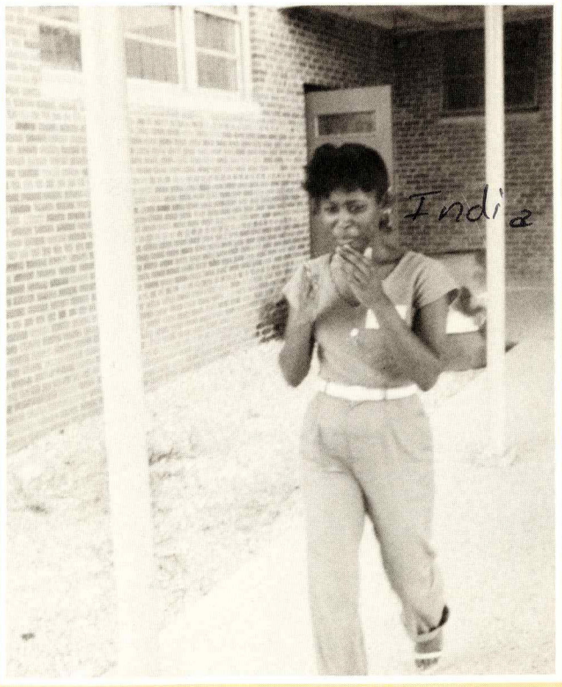
Third lunch . . . Freshman style.





Every job needs a supervisor and Miss Mitchell is indeed an excellent supervisor.

"Oops! There went my gum," exclaims India Ellis.



Homecoming, 1981

Homecoming, sponsored by the Student Council, is only one of the special events at our school each year. But it is indeed one of the most special, one we all look forward to each year.

The day dawned bright and hot as we anxiously prepared for homecoming. Against a scene of clouds and rainbows, the 1981 court was presented. It was with loud enthusiasm and approval that we received the announcement that Beth Devine would serve as our homecoming queen. Her princess was Barbara Hyde, and Hayley Hilbun and Joey Hans were the ninth grade maids. Serving the eighth grade as princess was Rhonda Stallworth with maids Susan Watson and Tara Godfrey. Princess for the seventh grade was Dawn Fricke and maids were Susan May and Dawn Millender.

Congratulations Queen Beth and all your lovely court.

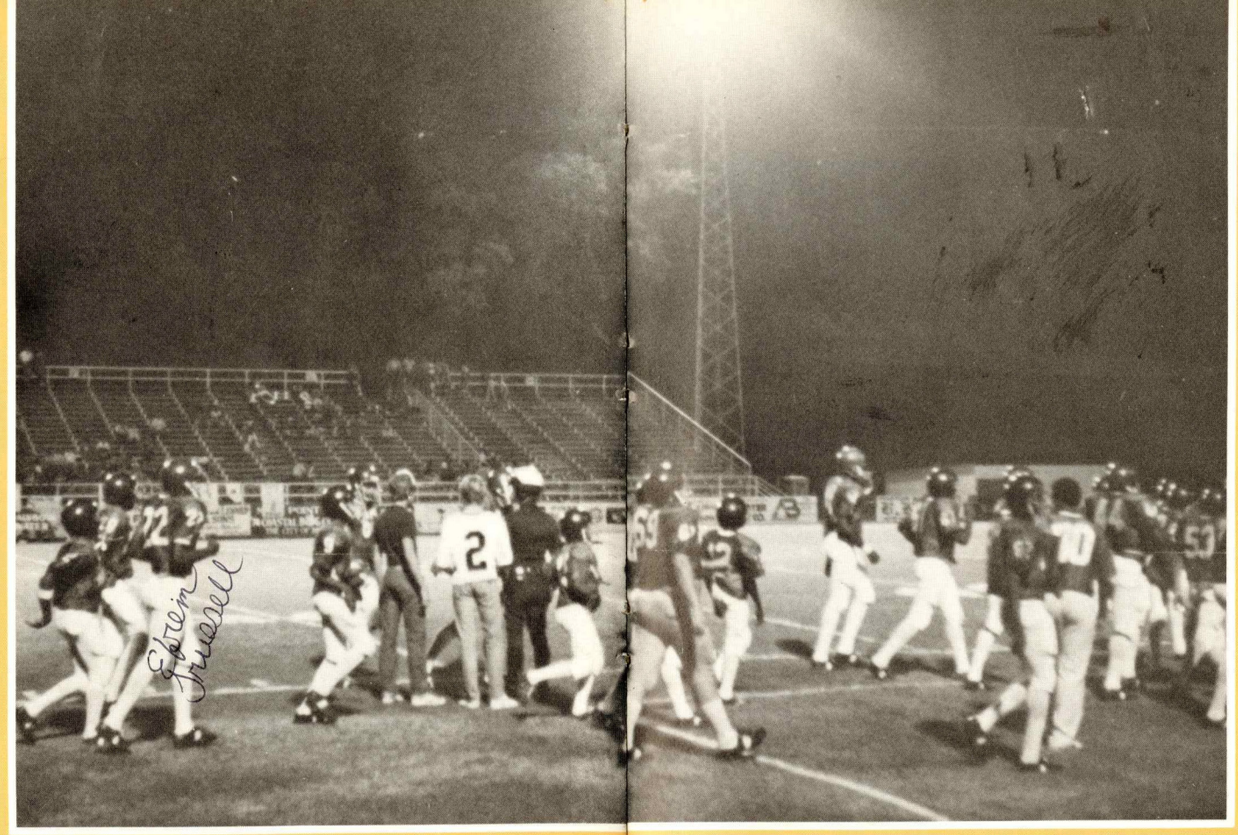
Mike Moffett, Barbara Hyde, Garrett Tucker, Beth Devine, Hayley Hilbun, Mike Miller, Joey Hans and Stephen Barrett composed the ninth grade homecoming court.

Homecoming queen for 1981, Beth Devine, was especially surprised. Pictured here with escort Garrett Tucker, she shows her smile and excitement for all to see.

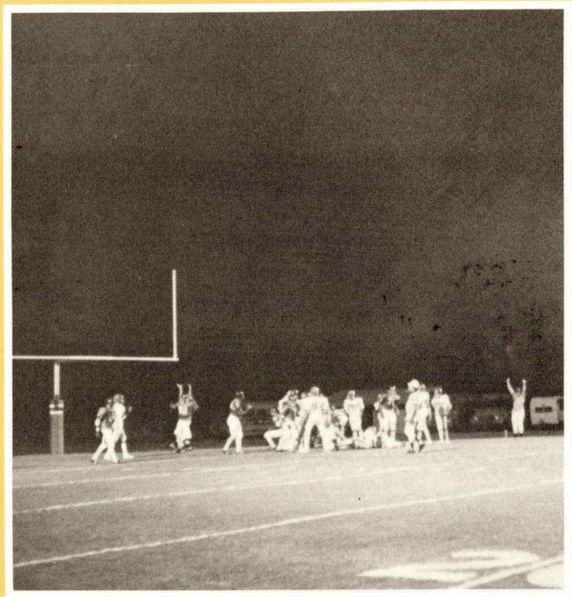
Lance Bodden, Susan Watson, Rhonda Stallworth, Mark Liddell, Tara Godfrey, and Scott Bosarge make up the eighth grade homecoming court.

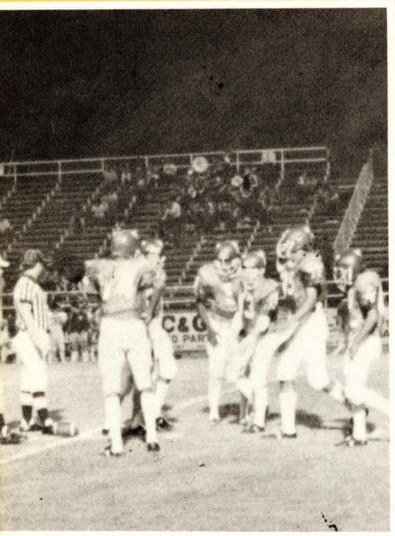
Rhad Mims, Dawn Millender, Glyn Hilbun, Dawn Fricke, Susan May and Robin Daugherty make up the seventh grade portion of the homecoming court.

Tigers in action are eagerly watched by those along the sidelines, anxiously awaiting their turn to enter the game.



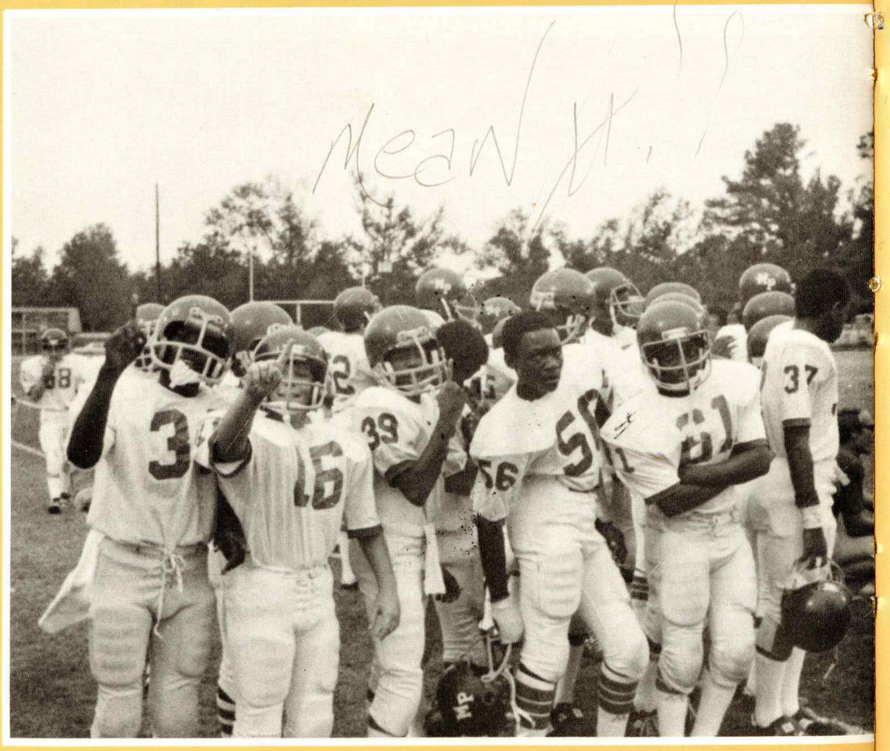
Touchdown!!!





Our defensive team takes a few moments to discuss their strategy before the next play.

These proud Tigers show just where they think their team should be listed.



Magnolia cheerleaders show some of the stunts they learned at camp by building a pyramid at one of our ball games.

Hard work, discipline, courage, and desire are the price we pay for what we want.

Winning is the name of the game, as it is in life . . . losing serves to remind us of our imperfections, to stimulate more effort, to teach us not to be bitter or to make excuses for our shortcomings, to appreciate the ability of others and to stand proud of our effort in the face of defeat . . . all that teaches us that hard-to-define quality of sportsmanship.

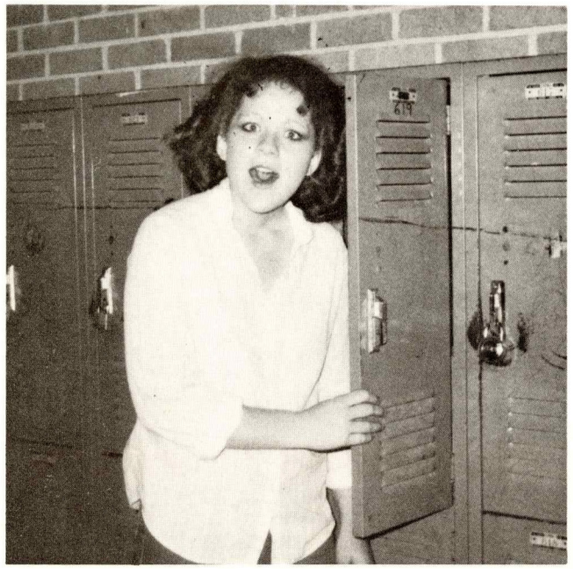
We had the opportunity to learn each of these qualities this year at Magnolia as we had a unique experience with our sports program. We participated with the athletes from Ed Mayo in an effort to better our entire program. Many of us learned to appreciate the ability of others and to stand quite proud of the young men who made a showing on the athletic field.

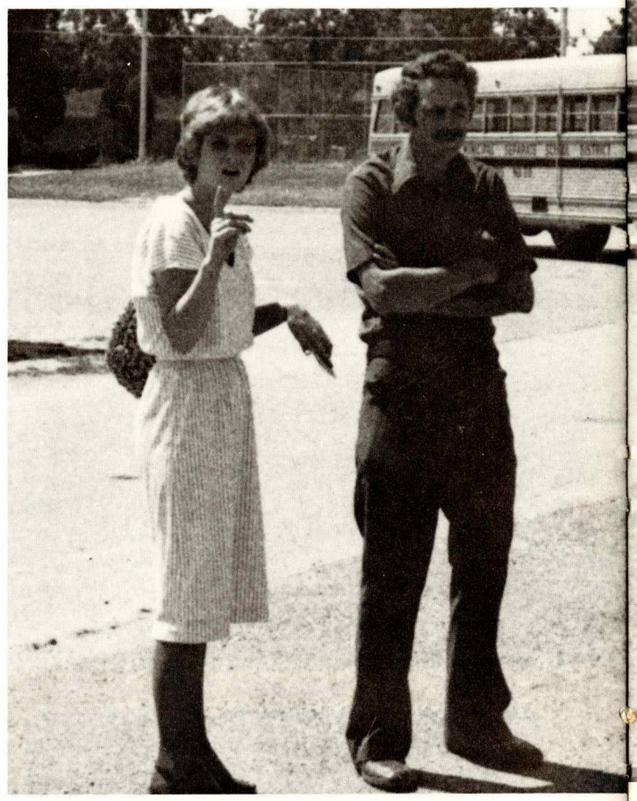
It somehow wasn't the same without our own Tigers to cheer for. But many of the players on the field were our own and we supported them with our attendance and our enthusiasm just the same.

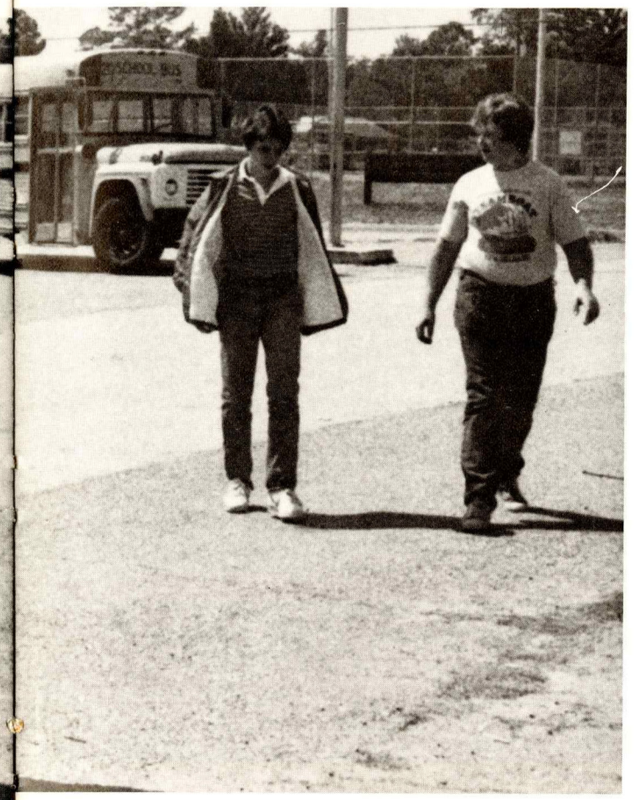
Togetherness

Ginger Speagle is decidedly trying to convince Mr. Eplin of a truth, while Brian Barfield and Russell Emerson don't consider it worth their time to worry about.

Carissa Mathison is definitely not taking her books home on a weekend. Why spoil all her fun?







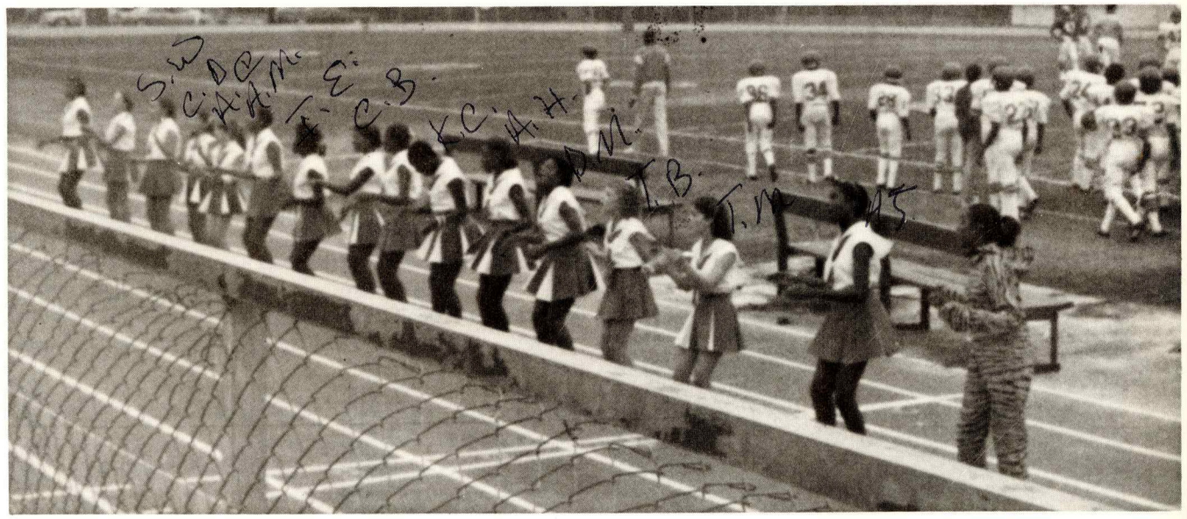
Out At Last

At last school is out and we are free to go our separate ways, whether it is to go to other classes such as art, dancing, karate, or band, or whether it is to just relax and do our own thing until homework time.

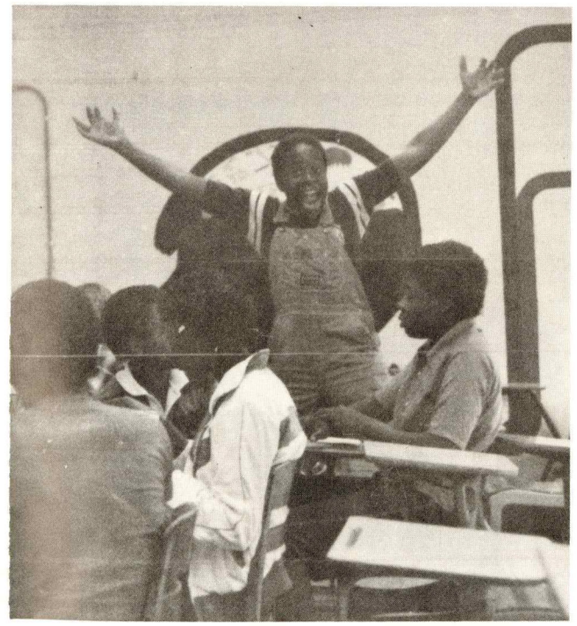
The joy of just being out of school for the weekend is enough, but those of us who want a little spice in our lives go out and get it!

Silvers, R & R Skating Rink, Sue Ellen's, Pizza Hut, Twin Cinema, McDonald's ... which one is your favorite? Each of us pursued pleasure as hard as we worked all week.

Magnolia's student body's taste varies in many different directions ... but of course, all of us are back on Monday, recovering from the weekend.



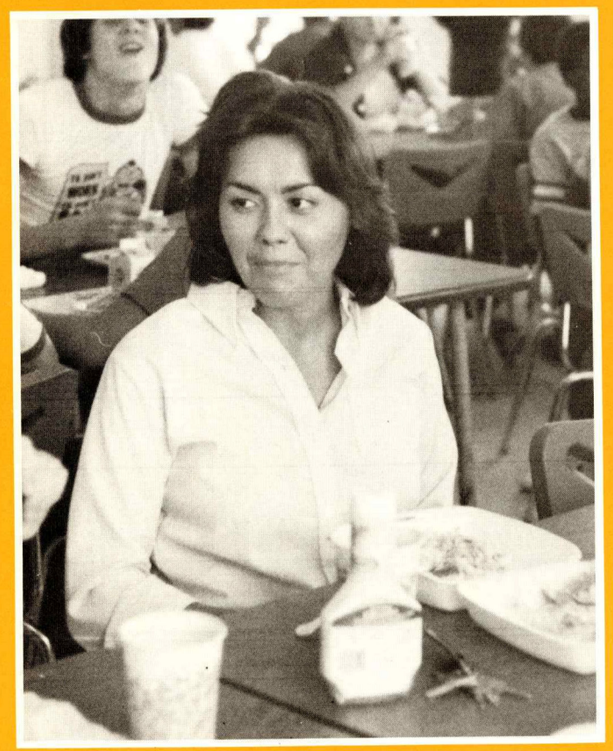
Magnolia cheerleaders were always there to root the Tigers on, even though it took a lot of their after-school time to prepare and to cheer.



"I can't wait to get home and soak my feet," must be the thoughts of Mrs. L. Myers at the end of a long week.

TGIF!!!!!!! Roy Graphenreed expresses his feelings well.

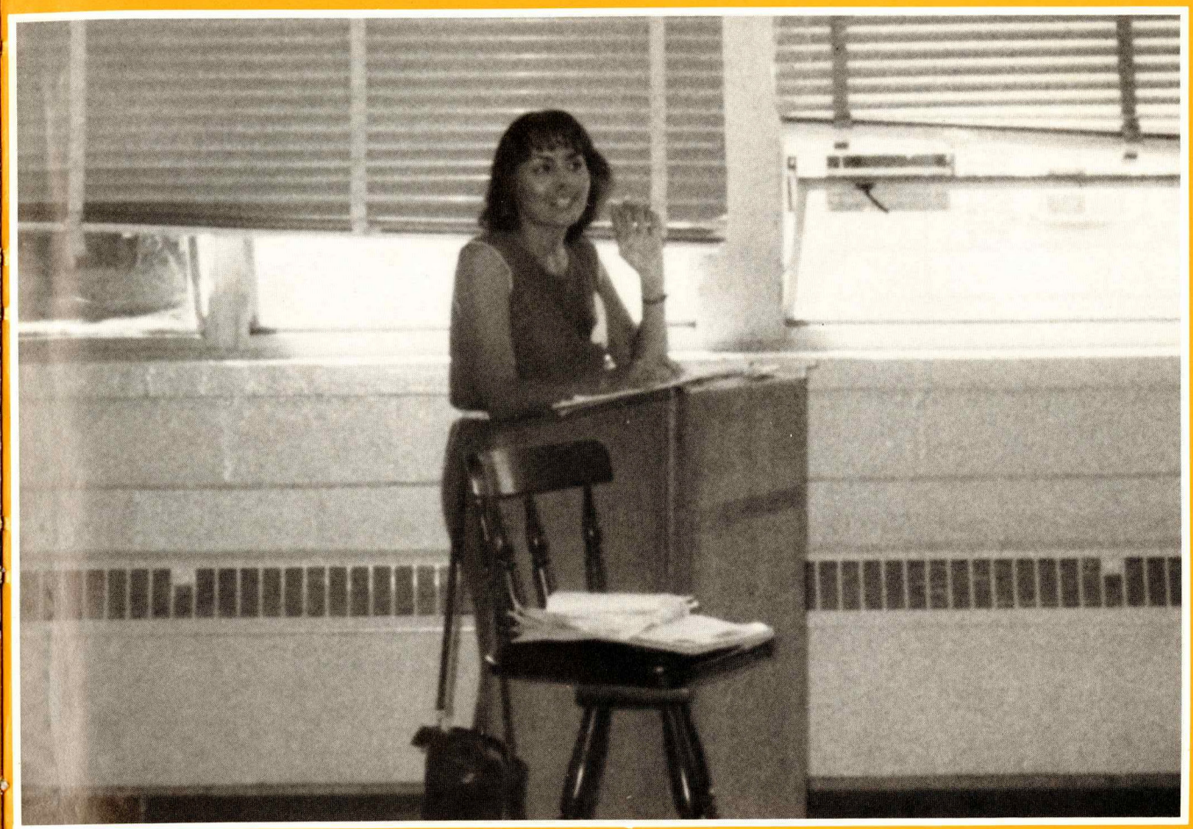
It seems that every time Miss Lee was eating this year someone was there trying to take her picture.



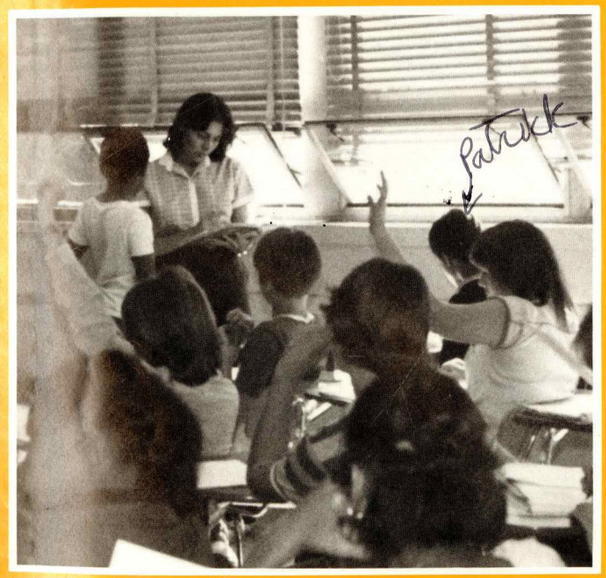
Not Pickled Cauliflower again.

Never a moment's peace when teaching active eighth grade students.

Tacky Day saw Miss Lee participating along with her students, always trying to build school spirit at Magnolia Jr. High.



Miss Mary Ann Lee

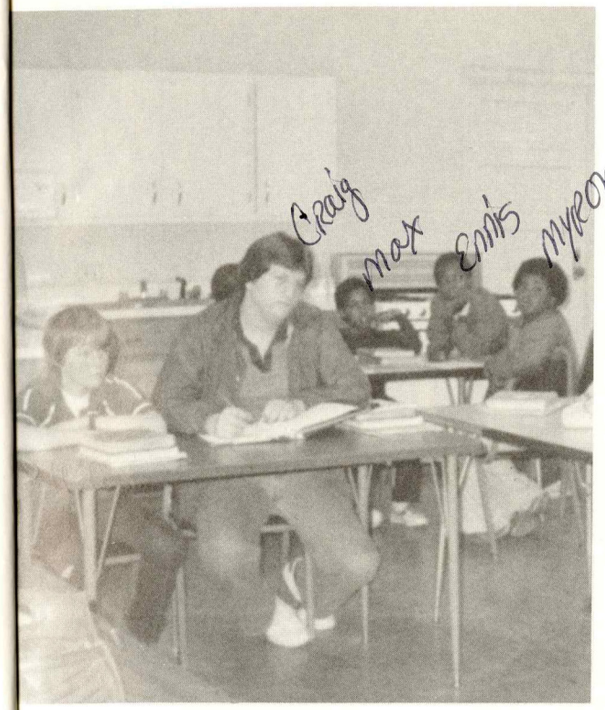


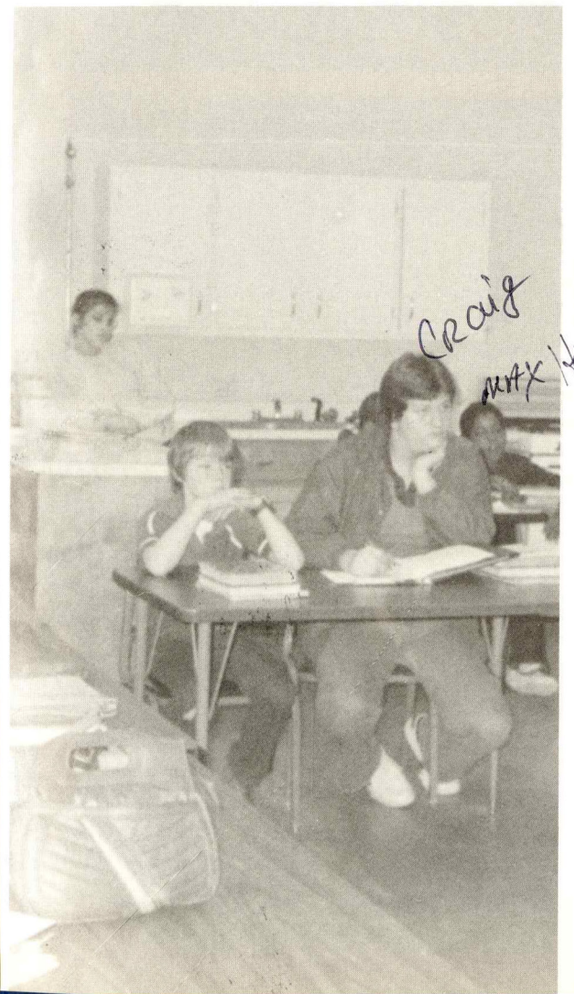
To inscribe a book to a person is a testimony of appreciation and respect. There are times in one's life that words cannot express our feelings. This is one such time. To someone who has, with intelligence, patience, and understanding, tried to impart to us knowledge, and who has given us moral support, given up her time and always given enthusiastically, we dedicate this yearbook.

Her whole being is devoted to young people and to the education of those young and alert minds. Not only is this person an excellant English teacher, but she is also the sponsor of our drama club.

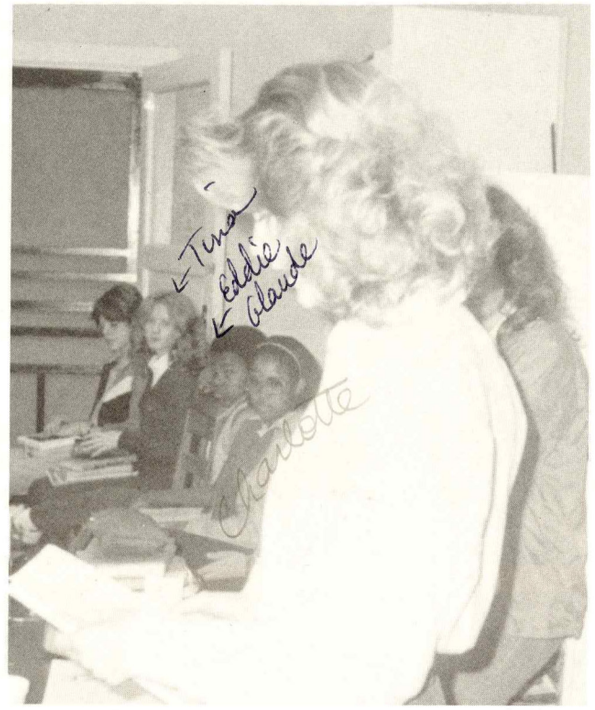
We inscribe this book in testimony of our appreciation and our respect to Miss Mary Ann Lee. It is our prayer that we, too, may exhibit the courage, determination, intelligence, enthusiasm, faith, trust, and respect for each other that you, Miss Lee, exemplify. Your students look up to you and are proud to have had you for a teacher.

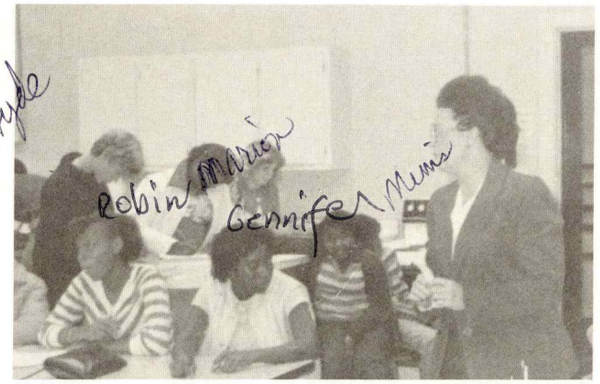
Our school has always had an atheletic program but this year it will not. We feel that since our school is no longer coming out in atheletics that we are becoming more academic. The Magnolia, which represents our school name also represents the true theme for our annual, "coming out in a new way" as the petals slowly open and glow so do our students.





Student Council





Mrs. Cirlot, advisor for Student Council, helps us conduct a meeting.

Student Council members attend bi-monthly meetings to plan the student activities of Magnolia Junior High.

Student Council

Student council members work very hard to make our student activities more enjoyable.

Mrs. Dot Cirlot was surprised on her birthday by a group of students who showed up to sing to her.

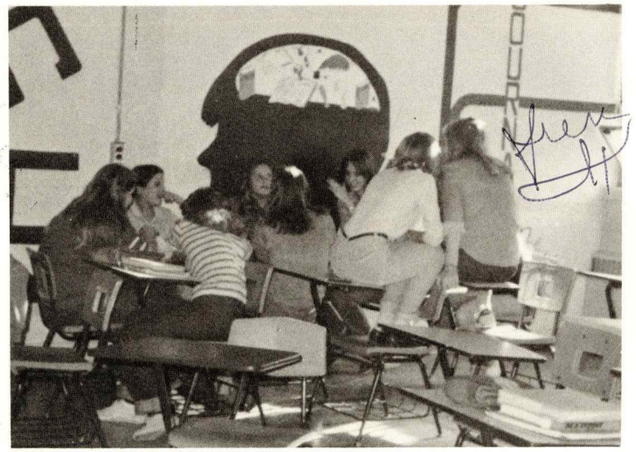
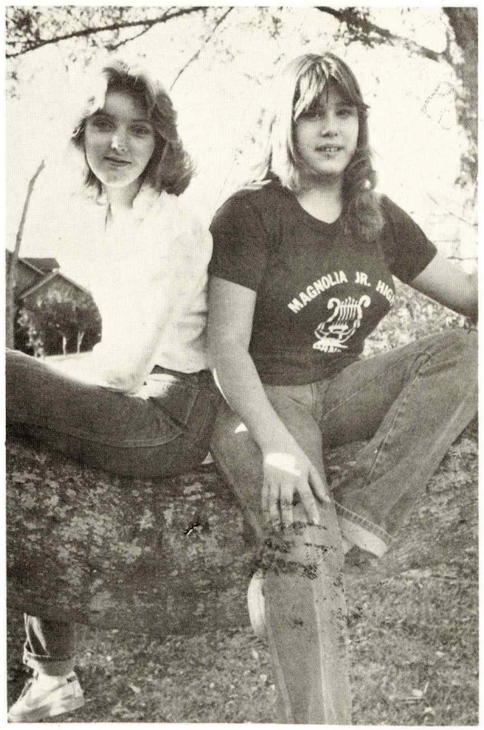
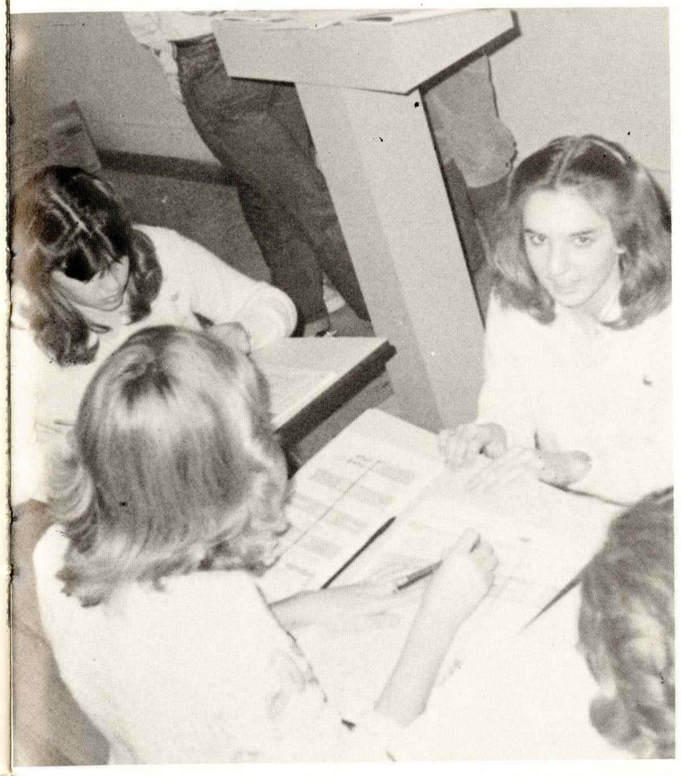
Yearbook Staff





Thinking up all those interesting ideas for yearbook and newspaper sometimes requires a lot of brainstorming — or are these staff members just taking it easy today??

Working hard to make this yearbook the best ever are our co-editors Christi Horn and Angela Broome.



Spending time after school to meet yearbook deadlines is a common occurance for Angela Broome, Maria May and Christi Horn.

AT LAST the final deadline is met and we could all go home to relax for a few days until it was time for the next issue of the Tiger Talk.

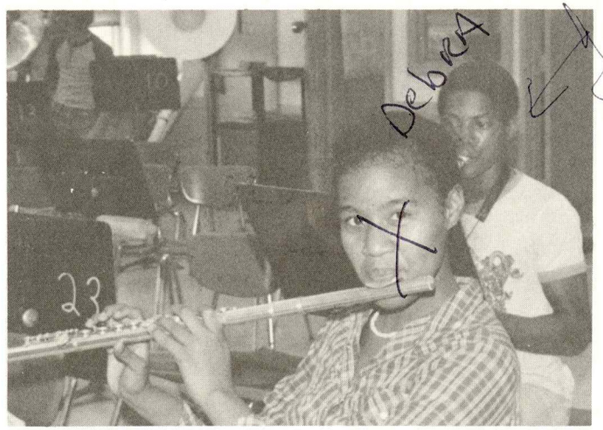
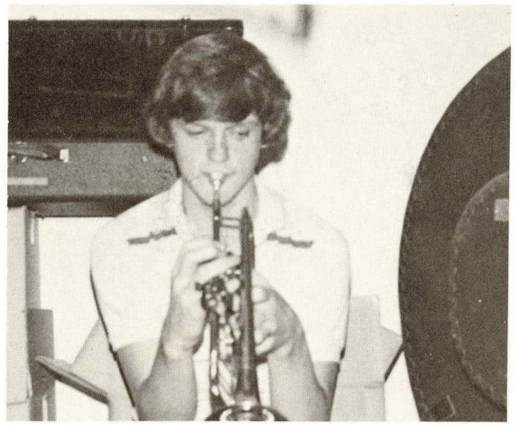
A Band

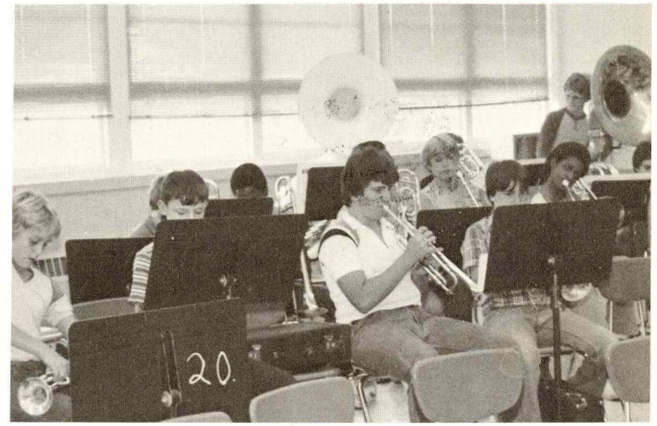


"And I thought band would be so easy," thinks Deborah Stevens as she practices for band.

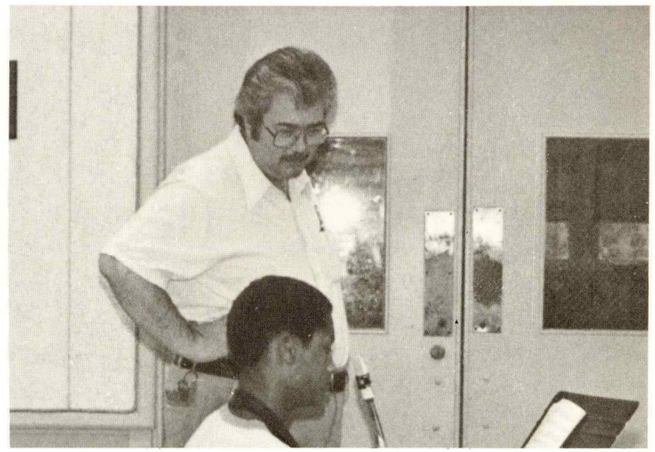
Ford Kinsey plays, "Practice Makes Perfect." Catchy little tune, isn't it, Mr. Adams?

Okay everyone, let's all play, It will definitely sound better.





"Phew!!! Band is hard work," exclaims Bruce Linton.



Getting some helpful advice from Mr. Adams assures George Stallworth that his playing will improve.

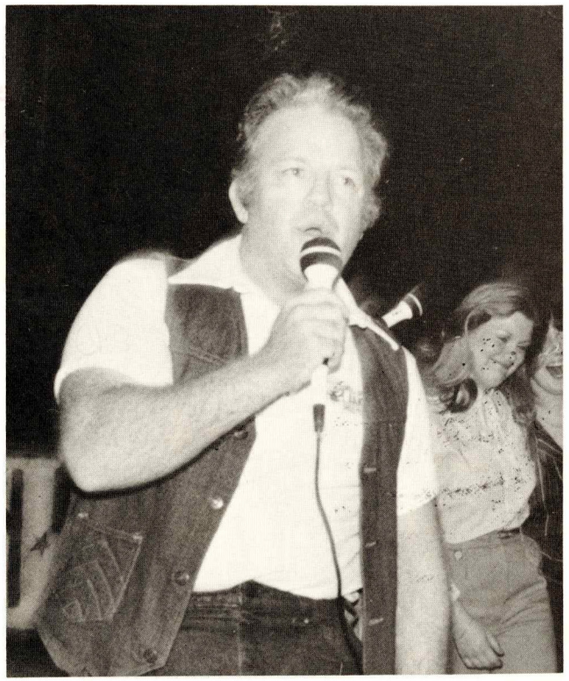
Talent Show

The Talent Contest at Magnolia Junior High for the 1982 school year was a great success. There were many fine talents in the performing arts as well as other divisions such as English poetry, history, art, and home economics. We were also treated to a display of "talent" by Mr. Hoitt, Mr. Weathersby, and various other faculty members. To all our winners we say Take a Bow.

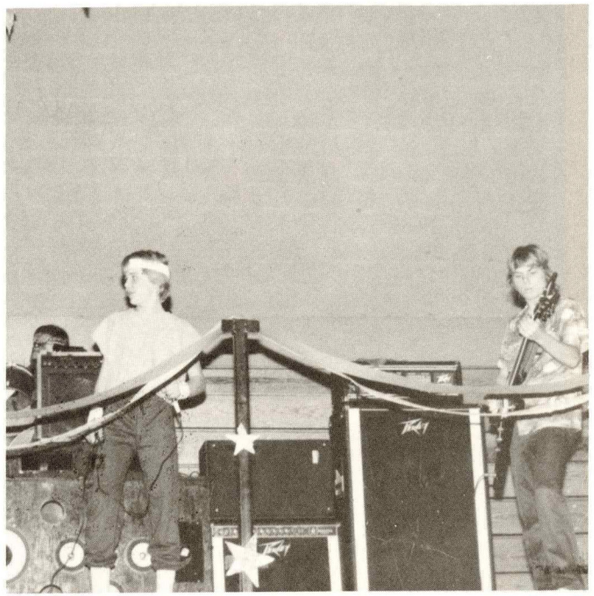


"Tell me what I say" was a familiar tune for those hearing Bassman Hoitt singing.

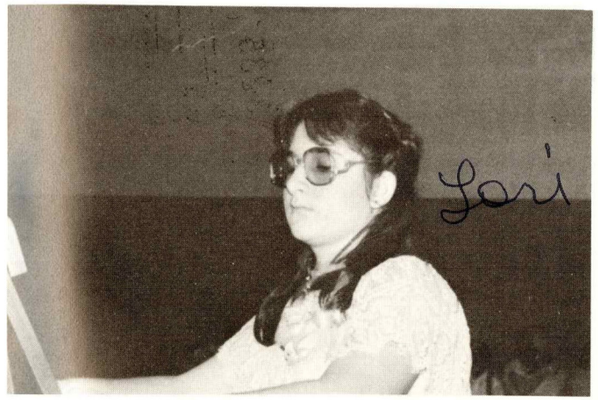
Dancing to Singing in the Rain were Christy Gandy, Traci Mills and Angela Crews, along with Tana Blades.

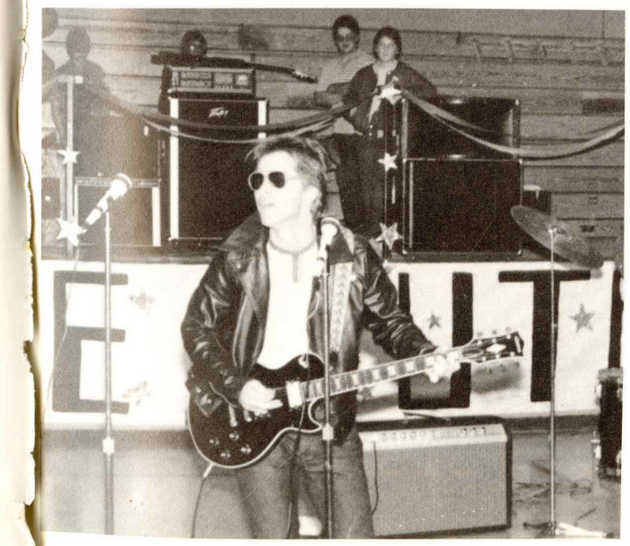
Michelle Miranne entertained us with a toe dance.

Entertaining us in their band were Mike Miller and Butch Mallette.



Winners: Christy Gandy, Angela Crews, Traci Mills, Tana Blades, Marcell Graves, Joe Salmon, Roy Graphenreed, Lori Kelley René Clark

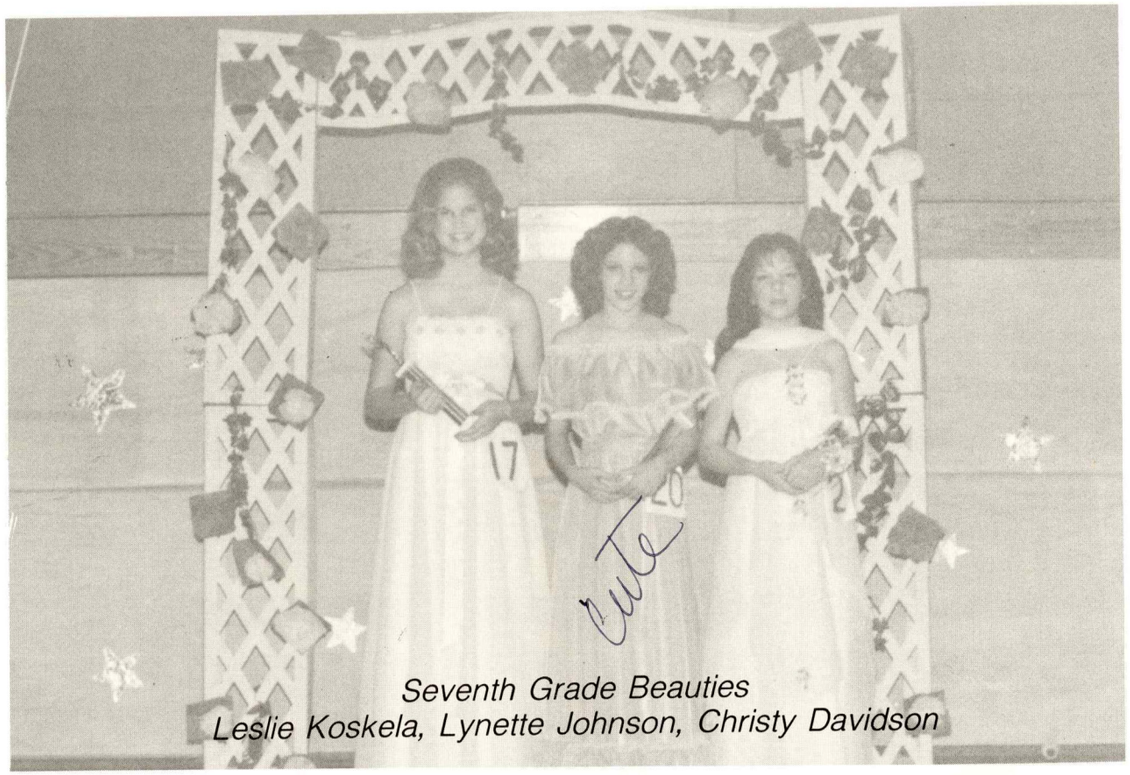




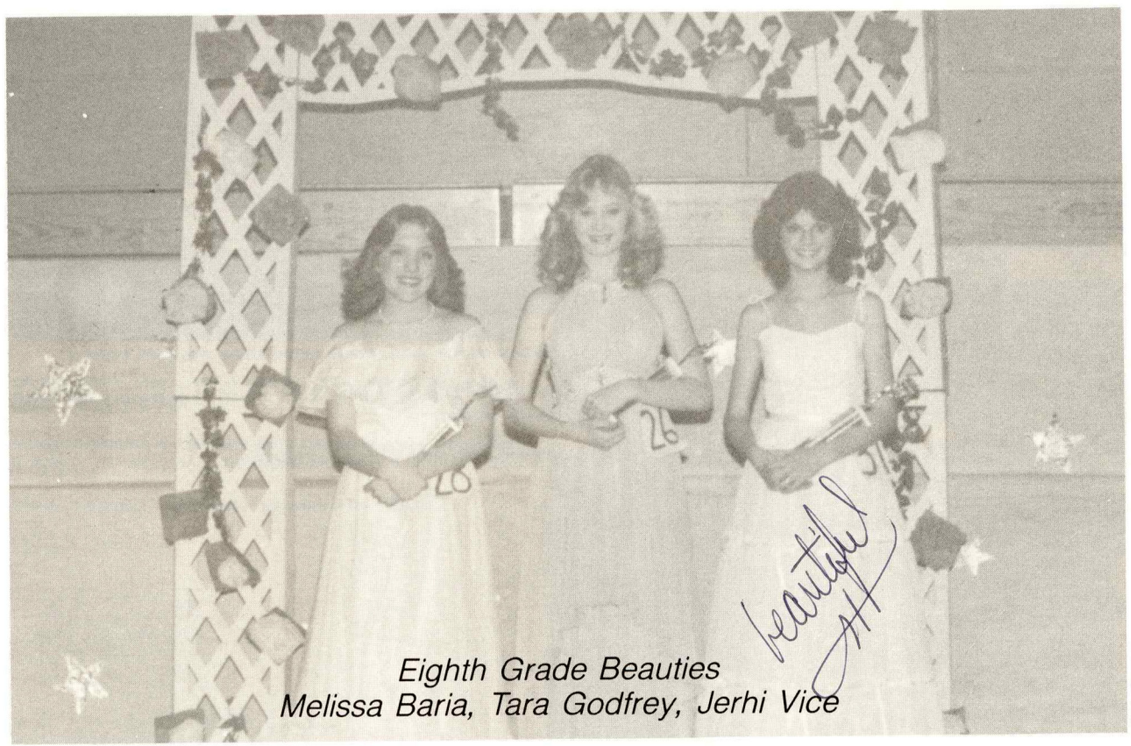
Winner of the ninth grade talent show was Joey Hans.

Lori Kelley won third place in the talent show playing My Tribute on the piano.

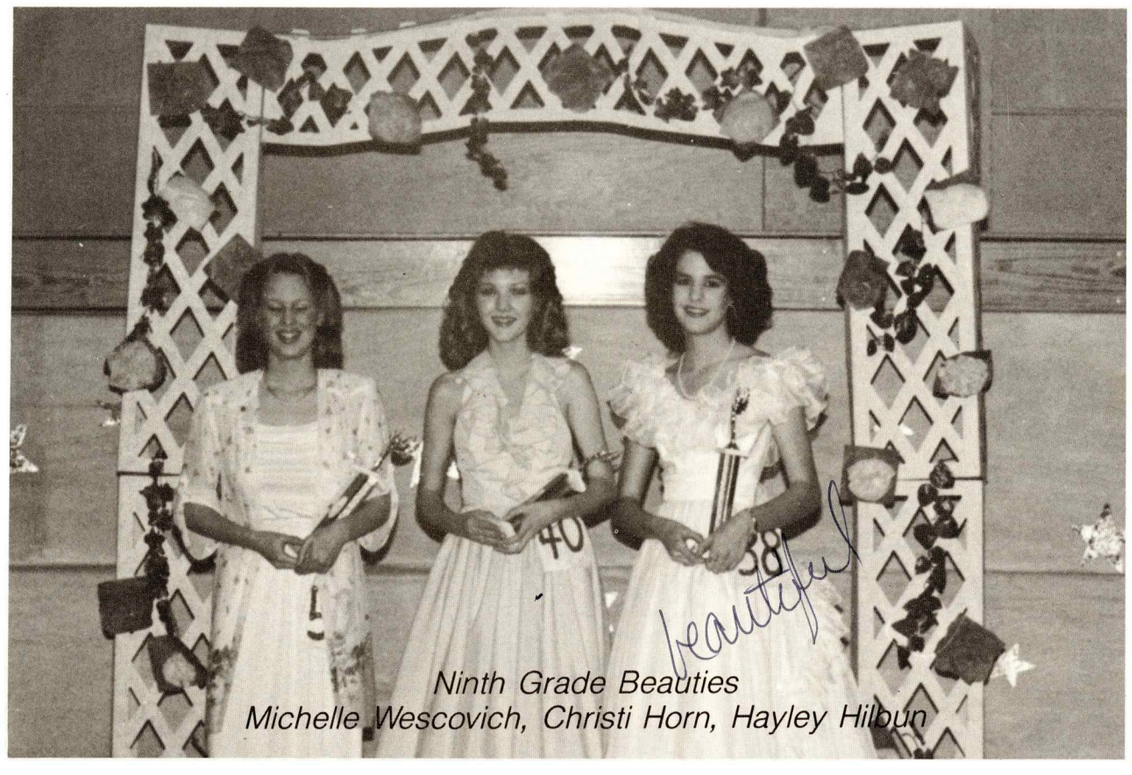
Wildman Weathersby was wonderful.



Seventh Grade Beauties
Leslie Koskela, Lynette Johnson, Christy Davidson



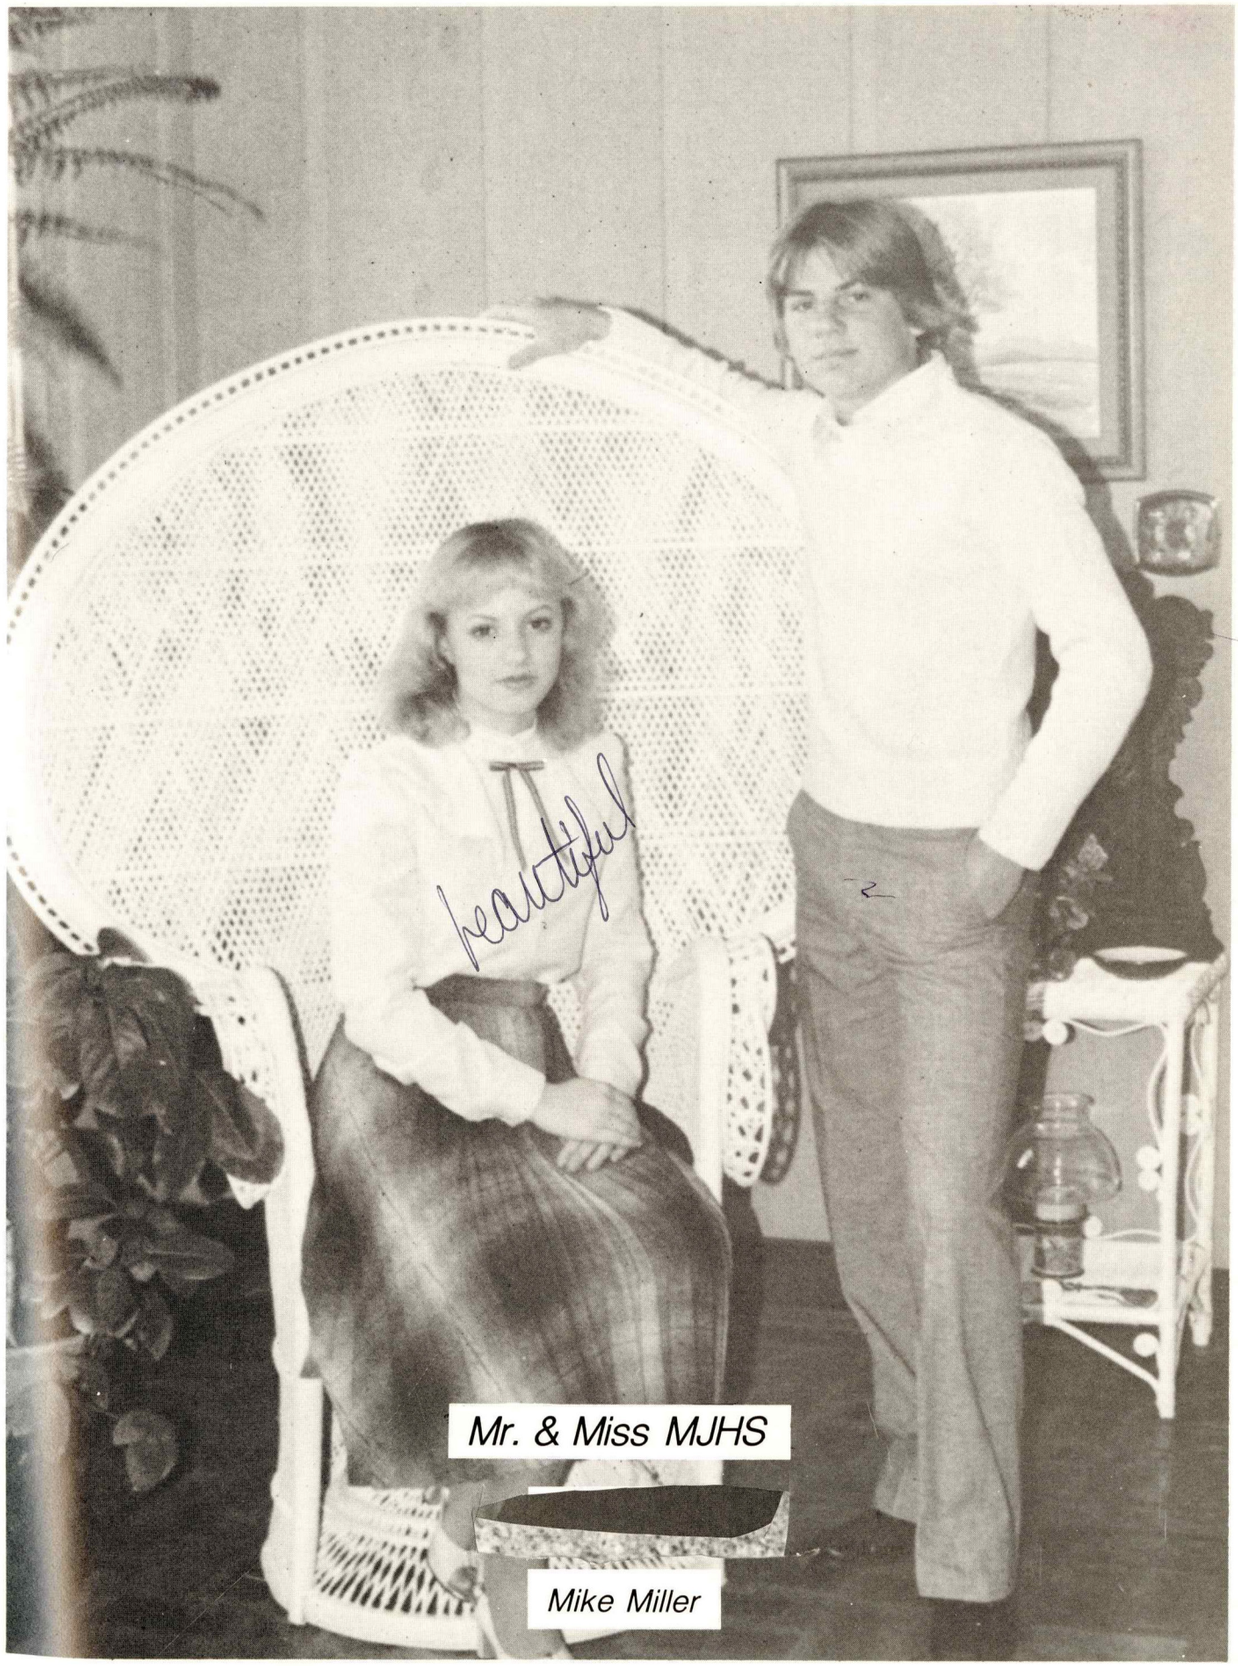
Eighth Grade Beauties
Melissa Baria, Tara Godfrey, Jerhi Vice



Ninth Grade Beauties
Michelle Wescovich, Christi Horn, Hayley Hilbun

Most Beautiful
Susan Mills

Magnolia has many students who have been elected by their fellow classmates for being outstanding. We present them to you now.



Troy Robinson, Donna Harris, Butch Mallette, Christi Horn, Robin Marion, Lance Bodden

Ennis Tait, Gayla Martin, [illegible] hen Barrett, Dawn Millender, Lance Bodden

Don Millender, Christi Davidson, Tara Godfrey, Deborah Stevens, Butch Mallette, Lance Bodden

Most Polite

Troy Robinson, Gayla Martin, Tony Grierson, Angel Houston, Barbara Hyde, George Stallworth

Most Talented

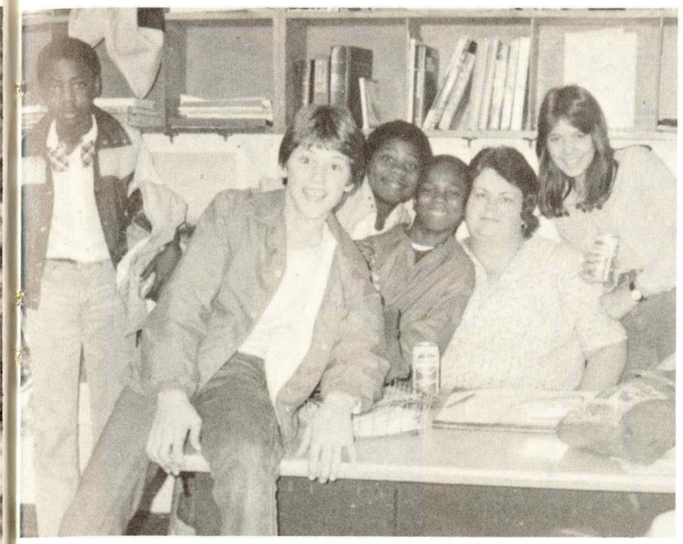
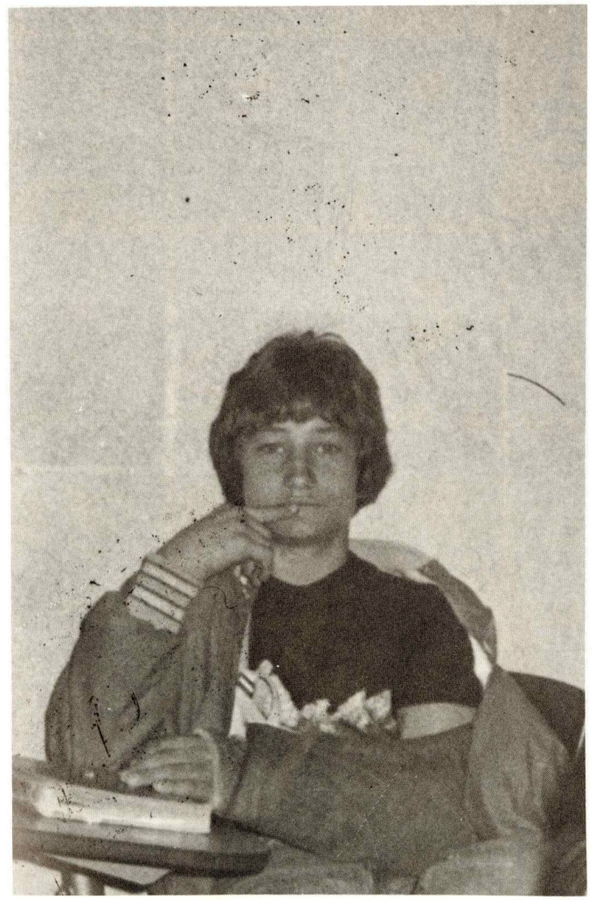
Natalie Agent, Gary LeBlanc, Jim Ley, Susie Vice, Shumpheit Brown, Rhonda Stallworth

Wittiest

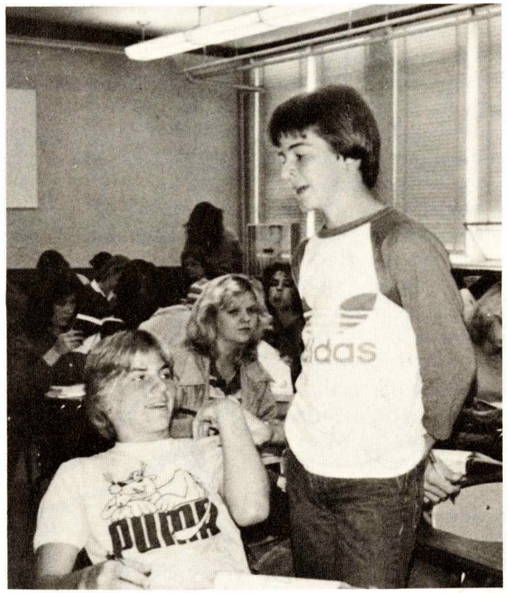


Catch that Pepsi Spirit say these students of Mrs. Rowell.

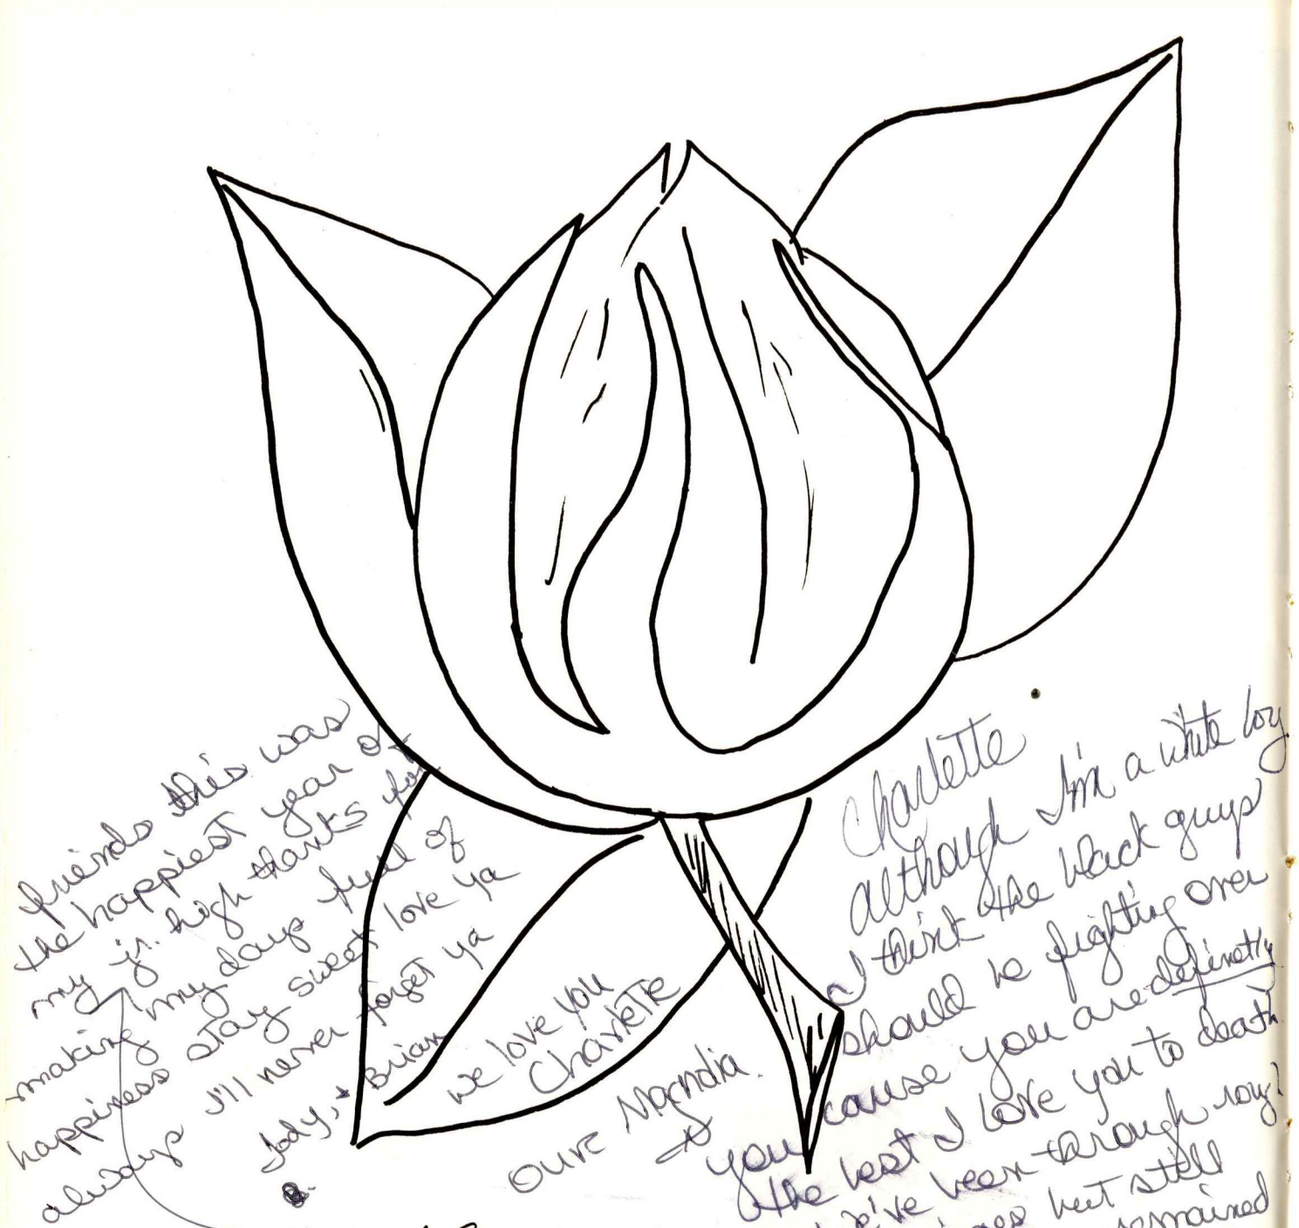
"NO! You can't hold my hand," laughs Mike Miller to Stephen Barrett.



"And in 20 years I'll say these are the good ole days?" seems to be the thoughts of Lance Bodden.



Not every girl gets to ride in the back of a pick-up truck for Homecoming like Hayley, Beth and Joey did.



Freshmen At Last

This year's ninth graders are proud to be called Freshmen. Good times are fun, but bad times are a different story. Detention Hall, In-School-Suspension, getting called to see Mr. Hoitt, and other times like these would likely be forgotten.

The times remembered are exciting football games, sock hops, graduation, and especially the Ninth Grade Prom.

Friends are becoming more special as the sense of responsibility and maturity are beginning to take on new meanings for everyone. Yesterday's boys and girls are becoming tomorrow's men and women. They're learning what adulthood is all about.

This year may not have been the best for everyone but for the class of nineteen-eighty-five it will always be special.

In the coming years these freshmen will look back upon these pages and pages of faces and remember the good times at Magnolia Junior High.

Yes, we the freshmen class will surely remember all the times we've had — good and bad.

These pages of pictures of our classmates will serve as a reminder when we leave Magnolia Junior High of those friendships and those people who were among the members of the Class Eighty-Five.

Confusion is a constant friend of Christine Jenkins.

Sneaking around trying to take a picture of Susan Davis was indeed a most difficult job.

The eighth grade class was glad to be out of the seventh grade and no longer be called "Rookies". They also looked forward to being in the ninth grade and being the "Leaders" of the school. Yet they enjoyed the eighth grade and all its advantages ... like attending ninth grade graduation, holding an office in the Student Council, being in "A" band, and working in the offices.
This year in eighth grade they've had some fun and exciting times ... like seeing Great Moments in the White House, watching "A" band marching through the halls playing their horns, and going to football games.

Yet they've had their bad times too ... being last chair in band, having hard teachers, and sitting on the floor for pep rallies and assemblies.

But as they grew and moved on to higher grades, they always remembered the fun and excitement of Magnolia Junior High.

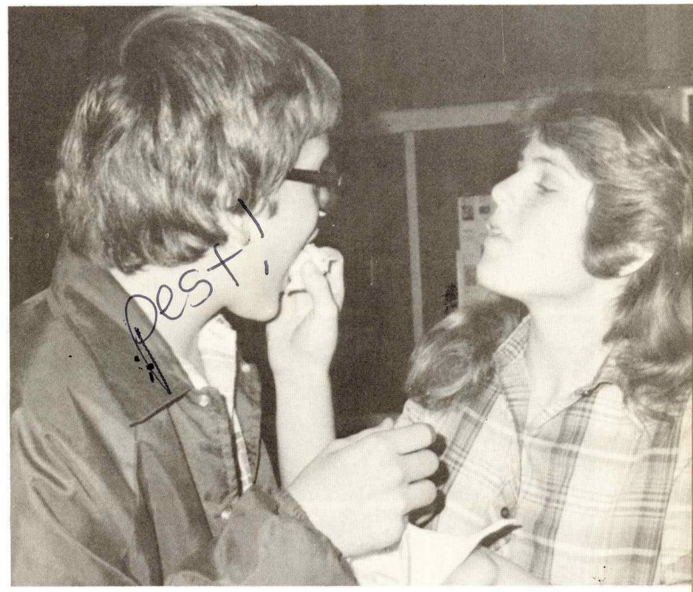
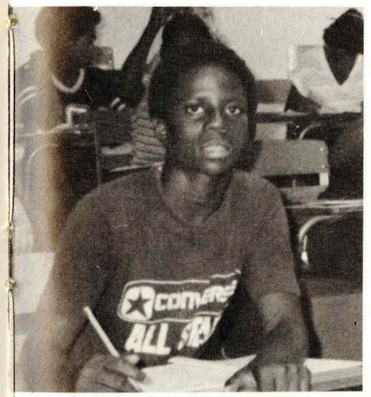
School photographers don't always wait for their subjects to get ready realizes Kim Graham after her picture is taken.

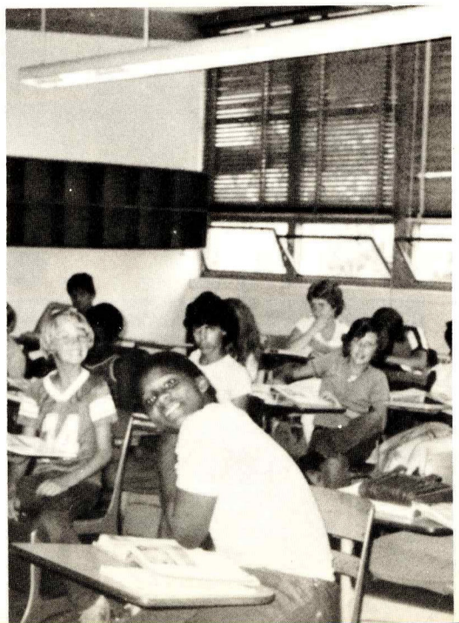


Stuffing Ricky Butler's mouth full is not a hard task for Regina Brown when it is open most of the time anyway.



Worrying about the answer to test questions can sometimes be hard on a fellow like Zachary Fountain.

The minute the photographer tries to take a picture of the teacher, Ms. Lett, all the students think they are supposed to be included. Could they be camera hogs?



Just another hard-working class at Magnolia.

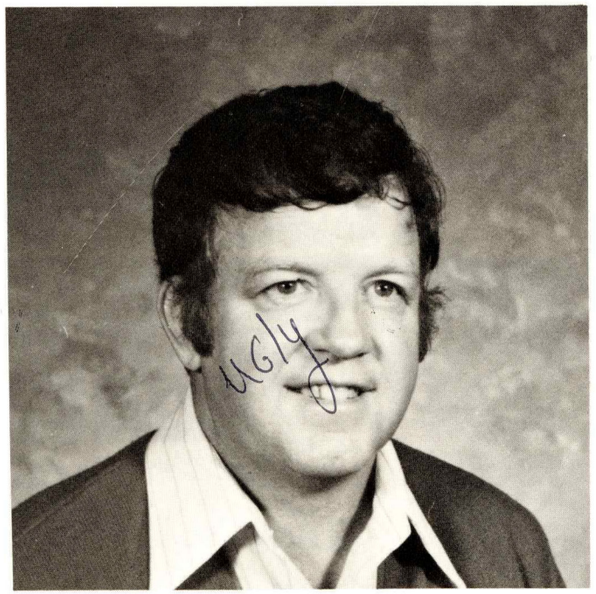
While doing a splendid job of teaching, our faculty has shown us great qualities of leadership.
For teaching us the importance of education now + in the future, we say thanks teachers!

Burton Hoitt, Principal

There are times in one's life that words cannot express feelings. This is one such time. Burton Hoitt is a man whose whole life is devoted to young people and the education of those young and alert minds. We would like to tell Mr. Hoitt how much we appreciate his every effort to help us, his consecration to his work, his love for our student body and his service as advisor to any and all of us that might need him. He has been and still is a vital part of Magnolia Jr. High School life. He will remain forever in the minds of those of us who have come in contact with him. We consider him a success in the role he has chosen in life for himself — Educator Extradinary!



Mary Holbert
Assistant Principal

Ricky Eplin
Assistant Principal

We are fortunate at Magnolia Junior High to have two very capable people to serve as assistant principals; Mrs. Mary Holbert and Mr. Ricky Eplin abbly fill their positions. Not only are they helpful to Mr. Hoitt but they are a great help to any student who needs them. We at Magnolia say thanks to them for being our friends.

Faculty

Teaching is an enjoyable but sometimes tiring job. However, our faculty never seems too tired to give us their total cooperation in all our educational endeavor whether it be in the classroom, in clubs, on the playing field or in the music rooms.

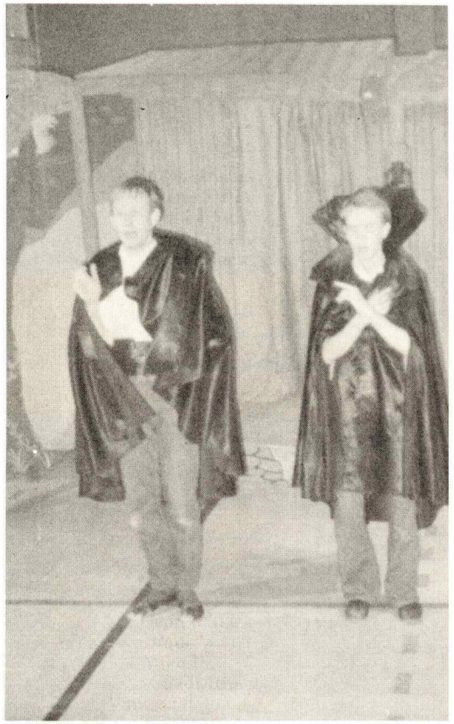
When the wind treatens to blow you away, it's not always great to be in the grassy area at lunch.

"The Hatfields and the McFangs" was a great presentation we had the chance to see this year.

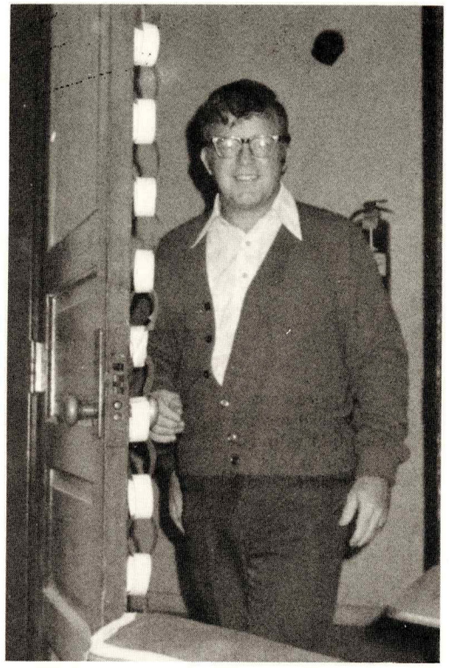


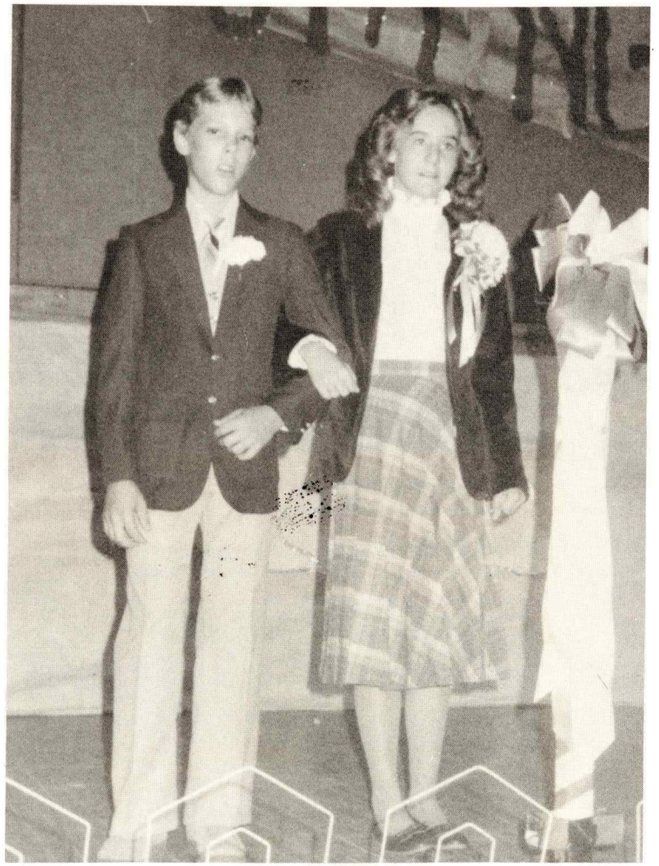
Showing off their stuff in the Christmas parade was the Magnolia Tiger band.

Before you can get to the parade, you have to spend lots of time practicing as Teresa Garner knows.

Maybe he didn't get her message exactly right.

I know I said no parties but do you mind if I join in? Uh Oh!! It's Mr. Hoitt!!!





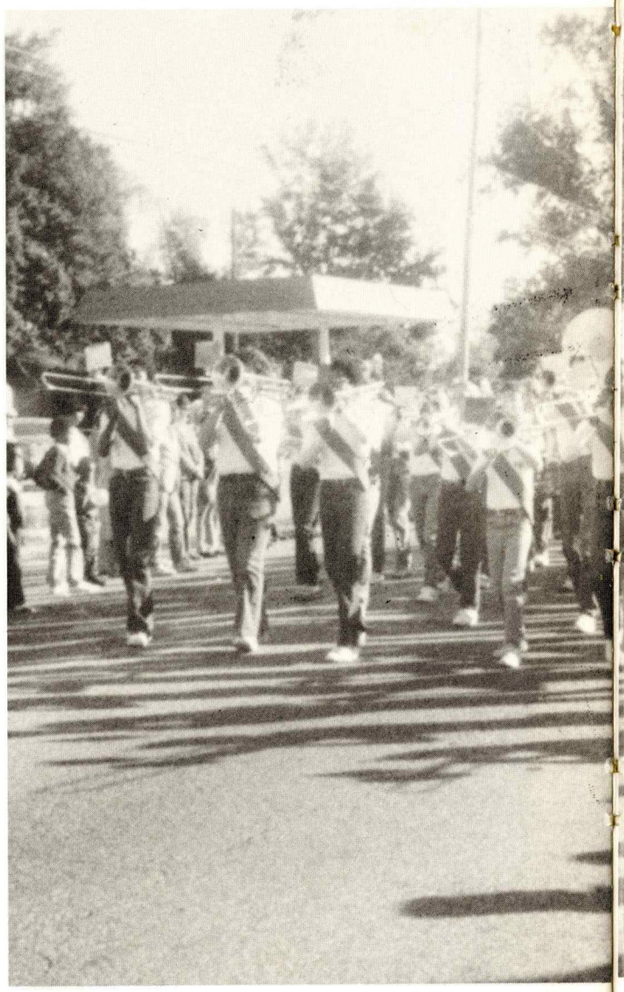
Homecoming was great for Seventh grade maid Susan May and her escort Robin Daugherty.

Friends, fun, responsibility ... these and more have left the memory of a wonderful year ... 1981.

Tomorrow is a different time, a different place. We face its rewards and sorrows with anticipation, yet with a certain longing to return to the red brick building, those special classmates, the friendly warmth of MJHS. But the time has come to take another step forward. We greet it with faces uplifted, tear-filled eyes, and smiling lips.

We stand together today reaching for tomorrow.

Mrs. May seemingly tells her students that she has had it up to here!



The pride of Magnolia Junior High, our band, proudly marches in the Christmas parade.

Obviously the newspaper staff doesn't work all the time on the paper. Some times are for playing.

Taking it easy in between writing articles for the paper is Russell Jones.

MOMENTS 81-82

As the school year passes, we pause to catch a final glimpse of everything we have done. Our classmates, our teachers, and our activities have all played a large part in this school year.

We the annual staff have attempted to preserve the memories through words and pictures. It is our hope that the highlights of this school year and your fondest memories are reflected in this annual.

You the students of MJHS made it; you lived it. Here are your reflections and memories of 1981-82.

I am enjoying signing your cast! Terrific

"This is just a little message telling you how much I care for you. Even though you've given up a lot of things for me, I just want you to know that I'll always be there for you. I thought you had a pretty face when someone else touches yours you'll come back and realize that you've never stop loving her but - your own best friend has gotten her love don't get mad just remember the day you let it go - the day you drop her then remember how much she loved you - I rest my case - Love Always
Alisa Roberts

To my cuz -
I'm sorry 'bout you and Strange one - I was going to wish you luck but instead I'll wish you Patrick all the luck - I know you are still in love with Strange one and upset about him (tippin' out) But just hold your head up high and remember the good times - just remember one day he'll regret it all Charlotte you are to pretty and intelligent to waste your time on one no good guy If he loved you as much as he said he did he wouldn't have drop you like that. But, don't fret, don't cry, just sit back and enjoy the ride. Love ya - Go for what you know - Stay Sweet ok. - Alisa Robertson

Good luck to you and PAT!
Love Ya
Yeah [redacted] but he's in love with Jerri.
